Read the Introduction to Johnson's book Amputated Lives: Coping with Chemical Sensitivity, which traces the development of multiple chemical sensitivity in Exxon Valdez clean-up workers, veterans of the 1991 Gulf War, First Responders and others exposed to the toxic aftermath of 9/11, and Katrina victims housed in toxic FEMA trailers. I have been gifted with many exceptional experiences since I was a toddler, before I had learned a spoken language. When I felt very rejected, I became suicidal, with a plan, and was committed to a psychiatric institution for a few weeks. *Chronic pain facts by John P. Cunha, DO, FACOE. Pain is an unpleasant sensory and emotional experience. Acute pain results from disease, inflammation, or injury to tissues and comes on suddenly.
